Congress To-day. The SENATE was not in session to-day.

The House of Representatives took up and discussed the bill for the relief of Osborn Cross, of the United States army, and passed it; and, at 2 b'clock, adjourned.

Hon. James A. Pearce.

This distinguished gentleman, who graces a seat in the Senate of the United States, addressed truths. that enlightened body on Thursday and Friday on the "deficiency bill," in reply to the speeches of Senators Gwin and Hunter.

These gentlemen, and particularly the Senator from California, had in their speeches assailed the administration with great violence, charging it with reckless expenditures and unpardonable extravagance. The charges for the most part were directed against the War Department; but the Interior, Treasury and Navy Departments were not overlooked, but received a considerable and respectable share of the denunciations of the honorable Senators.

Mr. Pearce had been for two months past confined to his room, severely afflicted with gout. On Thursday he resumed his seat in the Senate. and, true to his honorable impulses, entered upon the defence of the administration against the accusations of the Senators from the "Pacific State" and the "Old Dominion."

Mr. Pearce is a gentleman of strong, admirably-disciplined and highly-cultivated mind, and, withal, a rare logician. Superadded to his mental powers, he is singularly amiable in disposition and agreeable in his manners. We venture to assert that no member of the Senate is more esteemed by his legislative associates, or held in higher regard by the visiters to the Capitol, than is Mr. Pearce, of Maryland.

We are at a loss as to what terms to employ to characterize the speech of this Senator. His aim and purpose were simply, but adequately, to defend an administration which he considered unjustly assailed; and this he did most gallantly, thoroughly, and triumphantly. No speech of the session has been listened to with more atten- "Mr. Forrest will conclude his engagement at tion, or has produced a greater sensation. One, the Broadway Theatre, in New York, after having and another-and, indeed, all of the charges were performed seventy-two nights to overflowing aufairly met, and successfully combated and re- diences. He ceases only because he needs rest; for him the "golden opinions" of his fellow has ever been achieved by any actor, living or citizens and brother legislators, irrespective of dend." parties. The entire discomfiture of the Pacific Senator was regretted by some, but a member was heard to remark that Dr. Gwin would probably hereafter pursue the terrapin policy, and not venture out beyond his depth.

The organ of the administration-our good friends of the Republic-has failed to notice editorially the admirable defence of the administration by Mr. Pearce. Why this omission? The editors could not but admire the viger, ability, and eloquence of the speech. They doubtless think of it just as we do, but there are some who expected to see those thoughts in print.

Mongrel Parties.

The Baltimore Republican and Argus notices our denunciations of mongrel parties and side issues, and, with some lack of sagacity or candor, infers that "the Whigs are not to be considered Union or Compromise men." The great body of the Whigs are Union and Compromise men, irrespective of Whig organization; but as the Union and Compromise measures were consummated irrespective of party lines, and as they the sense of the people on the propriety of proare consummated and established, we are opposed | hibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in that to the revival of that issue to blend it as an element of contention in either party.

The Argus does injustice to its own party. The corpse, of the resurrected Compromise quarrel will be carried in its shroud into the Democratic convention at Baltimore on the first of June, and there will at once arise almost the entire delegation of the North and Northwest, who will declare that unless it is removed their States are lost to the Democratic party. We give this assurance upon well-grounded information, and our friends of the Argus may believe it or not, as they think The sentiments of every member of the Whig party, including their candidate, may, so far as we care; be revealed trumpet-tongued to the world. We would have no man suppress the true sentiments of his heart on this or any other Ohio are bound hand and foot for "Old Hasty." question; but we do object to a political convention's engrafting upon the creed of a party subjects not germain to that party's province of duty; and especially since we regard the present Whigs the superior claims and availability of demands with reference to the Compromise as other candidates. Of the fact that the Whigs of certainly tending to the destruction of that Com-

Rev. Mr. Bennett not Deranged.

We learn, with infinite pleasure, that statements to which we yesterday referred, in regard to the health of Rev. Mr. Bennett, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South in this city, are, to a great extent, unfounded. We are informed by a gentleman of this city that he has just received a letter from Mr. B., which furnishes conclusive evidence that he is not laboring under anything like "derange nent.

Mr. B. has been laboring for several month past under a severe nervous disorder, accompanied by depression of spirit; and his friends thought it advisable for him to retire, for a season, from the important position which had been assigned to him, and the active duties of the ministry, with a view to proper medical treatment. Under the skilful management of Dr Stribling, of Staunton, Va., his health has greatly mproved, and no doubt is entertained that he will be able, in a short time, to resume those duties of his calling which have heretofore been performed with so much credit to himself and advantage to others.

North and South.

We have read the speech made in the House of Representatives, on the 23d instant, by the Hon. E. K. Smart, of Maine, on the charge of the aggression of the North upon the South, and we sincerely wish it were possible to place a copy of t in the hands of every man residing south of the Delaware river. It would certainly prove profitably instructive. Mr. Smart pursues his subject in good temper, and in a spirit of candor, and repels the charge with the most uncontradictable

South Carolina.

The State convention is now in session at Columbia. It commenced on Monday, having one hundred and forty-seven delegates, there being twenty-two absentees. Governor J. H. Means is president. We shall soon be in receipt of the report of the proceedings of this body, which will all be subjunctive.

The National Era.

We constantly find in our, Southern exchanges extracts from this paper, both of poetry and prose. We believe, indeed, that it is as much indebted for its success to its literary merits as to the isms of its editor. Here, in Washington, however, we are reproved for quoting anything whatever from its columns, with a credit appended. But we will be just in the matter. If good writers will send their contributions to the Era. we will quote them, and, as we have nothing to pay, it is only fair to give credit. Besides, if we do not quote the articles in question, some of our readers may take the Era itself to read them; and there will be a pretty kettle of fish! W. C. Marshall not Dead.

The Cincinnati Gazette, of the 27th, says tha the report which has been widely circulated in the newspapers that W. C. Marshall, of Augusta, Kentucky, had been killed in a fracas with a tavern-keeper is a hoax. Mr. Marshall is at home and well, and has had no quarrel or difficulty of any kind with anybody. The origin of this falsehood is not known.

President's Leves.

A large and brilliant company were last night present. The President and his family appeared well, and in fine spirits. General Houston, who has just returned after a six weeks' journey to and through the State of Texas, was a prominent mark of observation. He appeared exceedingly well. This evening the Marine Band will cheer a larger throng on the green-sward within the President's enclosures.

The New York Herald of Thursday says that there are at present thousands of girls and men in that city who are exceedingly anxious to procure employment. Here good girls and women for house service are very scarce at five to eight dollars per month. The Herald has nearly five columns of newly-advertised "Wants."

DOGMATICAL .- We learn from the Baltimore Sun that the city council of Baltimore has provided that dogs found at large are to be killed and buried. Could it not legislate a little further by providing for an obituary in the Sun? [Winchester Republican.

With a doggerel appendage? Aye? Ha, ha! pretty good for you. But if Baltimore is as sorely pestered as Washington with dogs of high and low degree, we marvel not that they wish to get rid of them. We have never known the canine race so great a nuisance as they prove in this city. And we all bear it like lambs, although we have councils, and a mayor, and everybody else competent to banish or exterminate their caninities.

The Whigs of New York, Pennsylvania, and [Pennsylvanian.

Our Democratic friends seldom blunder upon this admission, but steadfastly press upon the these three States, and a majority of the voters in each of them, are determined to support Scott, nolens volens, we believe there is little doubt. That may be written down as a "finality" incontrovertible.

Nour Whig party is knocked into a cocked hat," said a Democrat on Monday to a mends that the endorsement of the Compromise Whig, at the close of Mr. Stephens's speech. "Glad to hear it," replied the Whig; "it is just where we want to locate it for the present."

Washington Markets.

There was a good market this morning at the Centre Market-house. Vegetables are coming in pretty well, and the early flowers remind us of the approach of the season of abundance. We quote as follows: Best cuts of beef, 121@15c. per pound; veal, 10@12c. do.; lamb, 12c. do. hams, 15c. do.; pork, 12c. do.; butter, 25@37c. do.; eggs, 16@20c. doz.; Irish potatoes, 37@50c. peck; sweet potatoes, 50c. do.; cabbage salad, 25@37c. do.; lettuce, 2@12c. head; radishes, 4c. bunch; asparagus, 10@16c. do.; apples, 50c. peck: dried apples, 10c. quart; dried peaches, 20c

About the most cheerful-looking place in the market this morning was Mr. G. W. Oyster's butter-stand. Oyster ought to be a happy man for he has the greatest abundance of good butter. good customers, industry, perseverance, and polite ness that we ever knew to be combined as the possession of any one single, identical, individual specimen of humanity. He is pleasing his customers and making a fortune, all at one and the same time; or, in classic phrase, he is going it while he is young.

May Day.

This morning looked sorrowful and tearful but the clouds have passed away and the sun ooks down benignantly. There is a cheerful hum of life and industry around us, and the green fields are spread out in beauty beyond the city's din. The broad Petomac rolls on as placidly as though it had hever known a flood or torrent; and its waters glisten like liquid silver.

But "May day" is too early in this latitude for the joyous pastimes of the vernal season. Ere the month is passed we shall have many of these to record, with all their joys and gladdening

Few of us have seen another winter and spring like to the past and present-long, cold, and te dious. But we should have no regrets for the past while Hope gayly lights the vista of the future.

THE MAYORALTY. THE MAYORALTY.

A 8 the friends of other candidates for this office are already active in their behalf, I desire to present the name of the present incumbent, WALTER LENOX, esq., for re-election. It is to be expected that personal preference will, to some extent, govern the choice of many, but before the community generally, honest and discerning in its decision, is not the proper question, "What is the public interest?" It must be admitted by every reflecting citizen that sudden and uncalled-for change is not only unjust to the officer, but to the public interest. It takes away the personal motive and ambition which induce the faithful performance of duty, and loses to the public the benefit of official experience. If the present incumbent has discharged the duties of the office with shility and zeal, and can hereafter bring to it the advantage of practical experience, I trust that the people of Washington will not use the elective franchise to their own injury and the injustice of a public officer.
